Pastor's Heart

Welcome to Upward Basketball and Cheerleading Day at First Baptist Church. Now in its seventh year, Upward has become a great part of the ministries that First Baptist provides for the children of our community. Volunteers from across the Christian community join with the staff of First Baptist to provide a Christ centered recreation program that teaches children the fundamentals of basketball and essentials of life.

Upward is one part of a multi-faceted program of activities designed with the whole family in mind. From opportunities in Sunday School to extensive offerings in music and mission, the First Baptist Family seeks to welcome, encourage, and influence children just as our Savior commanded and demonstrated to us.

I am glad that you are part of the Upward experience at First Baptist Church. If this is your first experience with the First Baptist Family, I pray that it will be an introduction to the wonderful things that God wants to do in you, through you, and for you in His family.

Upward Basketball and Cheerleading, along with the many other ministries at First Baptist, are dependent upon the volunteer and financial support of members. I greatly appreciate the hundreds of people who volunteer each week to coach, encourage, referee, and share their faith with the children of our community. You are a blessing of influence that will be long lasting.

Tonight, our Evening Worship service is led by First Baptist Students. The service time has been moved to 4:00 p.m., two hours earlier than usual,

Super Bowl coaches Dungy, Smith known for Christian testimony

By Art Stricklin
Baptist Press

MIAMI (BP)--Super Bowl XLI will feature two teams making their first super game appearance in two-plus decades, two Midwestern teams separated by only a couple hundred miles, but most importantly two coaches who are strong believers in Jesus Christ.

Head coaches Tony Dungy of Indianapolis and close friend and fellow Christian Lovie Smith of Chicago have had a two-week international spotlight for sharing their beliefs in Jesus Christ.

Smith spent part of his allotted time during the media session Monday talking about what was most important in his life, his faith in Jesus Christ.

"God is the center of my life. It controls all that I do. I hope I don't have to spend my time telling my players I'm a Christian. I hope they see it in my life every day," Smith said.

Last year, Dungy served as the keynote speaker at the annual Super Bowl breakfast, organized and run by Athletes in Action, the day before the game just weeks after his son's tragic death, giving an inspirational message about God's love in the best and worst of times.

Lovie Smith

Smith has told the Chicago media he believes in Christ, listens to Christian music when driving his car and does not smoke, drink or curse.

"I'm so happy for Lovie who does things the right way, without cursing and shows things can be done differently," Dungy said of Smith. "We give God all the credit."

Smith can credit Dungy with his start in the NFL. Dungy brought him to the NFL as a linebackers coach in 1996 at Tampa Bay. The addition of Smith to a staff which included fellow Christian and current Kansas City Chiefs head coach Herman Edwards proved to be a fulfilling spiritual combination.

Dungy has served as the cover spokesman for a special Super Bowl witnessing video and tract. Several of his players, including star tight end Dallas Clark, put out a special faith-based DVD titled "Power to Win" about their faith in Christ and their need to honor Him in all that they do.

While the media will concentrate on the game itself, the men in charge of leading their teams to the big game plan on sharing the most important things in their life, something that has nothing to do with runs or passes or even the final score.

Baptist Press sports correspondent Art Stricklin is beginning his fourth year of coverage on the spiritual side of the Super Bowl and will be on site at Super Bowl XLI.

so that Sunday School classes can plan and participate in community outreach events related to the Super Bowl. Come worship at 4:00 then plan a Super Bowl fellowship at your home and invite friends and neighbors to meet other members of your Bible Study class in a time of relaxed fellowship. It's an opportunity to make an impact for Christ.

Your Ministerial Staff will be at Carson Springs tonight through Wednesday noon. This is an important time of prayer and planning as we seek God's plan for the next year(s). Pray for us as we travel and work. Our capable and caring Deacons will be available for any ministry needs that may arise during these three days.

See you in worship.

In His Love,

Pastor Randy
